

About the Conference

Quality improvement is a continuous process of working across departmental lines to produce better services for health care clients. There is a need for continuous improvement of quality care provision and the professional nurse plays a vital role in the quality improvement of health care services. Yet system reforms are needed to achieve quality improvement--not merely altering the current system, but radically changing it. Based on this premise, the nurse--who is at the heart of the system--is the best person to assess the status of health care services and to work toward improving the processes by which these services are provided to clients in the health care setting. This conference aims at inspiring and empowering the nurse in their dynamic efforts to improve the process by which health care is provided and helping in reshaping the health care environment.
